River Council Writes Suggestions

On Canoe Control

The AuSable River Watershed Study Council drew up a list of changes which they will present at a public hearing that will be held for the proposed Department of Natural Resources regulations for control of the AuSable River.

Willard Bosserman, Watershed Council chairman, said "The proposed changes will still protect the river. They will cut the increases in river usage but will not cut back the usage from the level this past summer."

The DNR commissioners accepted a committee of three's proposed controls at its September 9 meeting. Now the proposals will be aired at public hearings, not yet set, for possible changes and refinements.

The Watershed Council suggests modifying the DNR proposal that limits the canoes released on the river to one every two minutes from opening of trout season to June 30. They want a modified permit system, used through Labor Day, designated to stop an increased number of canoes from this past summer's level, Bosserman said.

The Watershed Council will suggest the DNR delete the hour restrictions. They would allow the canoes and riverboats on the river at all hours instead of limiting them between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

"It is the feeling of canoe livery owners that there is no conflict with fishermen after 6 or 7 p.m. The canoes are off the river," he said.

The Watershed Council also wants to eliminate the proposed spacing of canoes three lengths apart. They add a provision to the DNR proposal allowing for review of the rules as new research data becomes available.

This was added because the Northeast Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission researching the usage of the river will not have their two-year study completed for another year.

The policy committee of the Northeast group met this Tuesday in Grayling to consider recommendations to make at a DNR public hearing.

They will look at the Watershed Council's proposed changes and we will work together to modify them to come up with changes agreeable to both the groups, Bosserman said. He said the council recommendations are based on proposed regulations drawn up last winter by a sub-committee.

The public hearings are not set up yet, but Bosserman expects one to be held in Grayling. At that time he hopes the Northeast group and the Watershed Council will have a set of recommendations they can present as a combined effort, showing agreement on what changes should be made before controls are implemented.

Vikings 34, W-P 14

At Mancy Friday

Following two straight losses, the Grayling Vikings' offense came into its own last Friday evening, as they turned in an impressive victory over the Whittemore-Prescott Cardinals, 34-14, in another non-conference contest.

This Friday night, the Vikings will enter the Northern Lower Michigan League play when they travel to Mancelona to take on the Ironmen. The two teams tied for league honors last year when they battled to a 26-26 tie in the final game of the season, and both finished with 7-0-1 records.

The Ironmen will field a veteran squad Friday night, as they have 12 seniors from last year's co-champions, making them the favorites in this year's drive for league honors.

Coach Mike Weiland had three starting offenses last Friday against the Cardinals, and each contributed to the Vikings' victory.

Mark Doty, at quarterback, set up the first TD as he ran sweep plays until the Cardinal defense loosened up, with Kim Parkinson tossing a halfback option pass to Wayne Westervelt good for 64 yards and the Vikings first score.

Terry Fitzpatrick led the Vikings to the rest of their scores with an option offense that give him the option of giving the ball to Parkinson at fullback or keeping it himself.

Fitzpatrick gained 90 yards on 13 carries and scored two touchdowns, with Parkinson picking up 87 yards in 9 carries and one TD.

Fitzpatrick hit on 5 of 6 passes for 72 yards and one TD strike to Jim Tobin.

The Vikings gained 268 yards on the ground, and 140 yards passing. Returning punts and kickoffs added another 85 yards for a total offense of 493 yards.

Grayling's defensive unit looked better than in the previous two games, but miscues and penalties hurt them in the Cardinal's two touchdown drives, when they picked up 30 of their 50 yards in penalties.

Fitzpatrick again led the defense play as he turned in 7 solo tackles and 5 assists. Tobin had 7 solos also, and 3 assists.

Bob Vollmer led the linemen with 6 solo tackles and 2 assists, plus a fumble recovery, and Westervelt turned in 4 tackles and 2 pass interceptions.

The Viking - Ironman contest could well be the determining game for league honors this year as the final game was last season. The Onaway Cardinals are also to be reckoned with, as they too have a strong team returning.

Beware Of "Medicare" Collection

A concerted sales campaign by local and national insurance representatives has resulted in considerable confusion on the part of many older citizens in the area.

The campaign is directed at the senior citizens and offers additional health insurance coverage. The prominent use of the name "Medicare" in all the offers has led many to believe that the campaign is a part of the Federal Medicare Program. E. O. Wiles, Manager of the Traverse City Social Security office advises area residents that there is no official representative going house to house trying to collect the medicare premium of $5.60 per month, or making an offer of additional insurance coverage.

Mr. Wiles explained that many reputable local agents and Insurance Companies do offer supplemental medical insurance programs that provide coverage in areas that medicare does not. These areas are principally the first $60 deductible for a hospital stay and the annual $50 deductible and 20% of doctor bill coverage that is not funded under Medicare.

Mr. Wiles warned local citizens to make sure of the coverage being offered by the agent or the sales letter. He suggests that if there is any question that a reputable local agent or company be contracted so that a fuller explanation of the offer is obtained. He further emphasized that once a 65 year old has full Medicare coverage there is no additional coverage that can be obtained thru the federally sponsored Medicare program.

If you have any questions concerning Medicare itself, contact the local Social Security office at 1111 E. Front St., Traverse City, Mich., phone 946-8360.

Mental Health Board of Directors Meet to Formulate Centers Plans

The Board of Directors of the North Central Michigan Mental Health Centers, Inc. held a regular meeting September 16 at All Saints Episcopal Church in Houghton Lake. Present were Myrtle McPhail, Alice Hamp, Ann Beltz, Barbara Guest, Shirley Moerdyk, Jim Bartholomew, Cliff Molnar, Walt Ransom, Lisle Earl and Bruce Gideon.

A written report was submitted by Walt VanderHeide dealing with the question of the Board backing a "drug help" program in the four county area. The report questioned the feasibility of model programs developed for densely populated urban areas being adaptable to our spread out youth population. An alternate approach such as providing consultation and training to social agencies, law enforcement agencies, schools, civic groups and churches as well as to interested groups of young people and adults was favored, with the need for more research as to specific local drug programs was stressed.

Cliff Molnar, Chairman of the Crawford - Roscommon Advisory Board, commented on that group's reception of the draft of the proposed bylaws dealing specifically with the functions of the Advisory Boards and the Board of Directors and the relationships between them. On behalf of the group Mr. Molnar presented a number of proposed amendments which were discussed by the Board and their disposition a matter of record.

Plans are for the bylaws to be in final form at the next Board meeting with inclusion of additional Articles on Amendments; Execution of Instruments; an Articles dealing with the authority and functions of the Director; and the organization, composition and responsibilities of the Personnel and Finance Committee. The latter committee is to be composed of six persons, one from each county plus the chairman of each Advisory Board with the treasurer of the Board of Directors to chair the committee.

Bruce Gideon pointed out the omission of mentally retarded and developmentally disabled persons as a part of our service population as stated in the corporation's purpose and this was corrected.

Corlew - Kioski Vows Spoken

Michaela Lee Corlew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey E. Corlew of Grayling, and Kenneth David Kioski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kioski of Ontonagon, were united in marriage on Saturday, Sept. 11. The four o'clock ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul Frederick at Michelson Memorial Church.

The bride approached the altar in an empire styled A-line gown of organza over taffeta with Bishop sleeves with wide cuffs. The gown was appliqued with alencon lace florets and featured a chapel length, detachable train and wedding ring collar. A Juliet styled cap held her elbow length veil of bridal illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Krys Englund was maid of honor and Carlene Englund was bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of chiffon over taffeta in nile green and maize, respectively. Their high-collared dresses were A-line styled with a lace overlay forming a Juliet vest and wide-cuffed Bishop sleeves. They also wore Juliet-styled caps with veils in complimentary shades. They each carried a single yellow rose.

Mrs. Corlew wore a three piece blue suit for her daughters wedding with a white rose corsage. The groom's mother chose a pale yellow coat and dress ensemble and wore a yellow rose corsage.

John Doyle of Ontonagon, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man and Dale Martin of Ontonagon was groomsman.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall following the ceremony. The wedding cake was made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Richard Perry of Grand Blanc. Mrs. Ralph Anderson of Grayling decorated the reception hall, carrying out the color scheme of yellow and green.

After a honeymoon in Canada, the newlyweds are making their home in Chassell. The groom is attending college at Michigan Tech. in Houghton. They wore matched blue denim outfits for their going away attire.

Out of town guests attended from Grand Blanc, Flint, Clio, Muskegon, Ravenna, Bridgeport, Ontonagon, Houghton Lake, Fenton, Fruitport, Vanderbilt and Roscommon.

A Book Review

By George W. Munford

You and I belong to the privileged elite; we eat well.

Yet more than two-thids of the world's people are underfed or undernourished. And the same frightening prospect faces us, our children and our grandchildren — in this century.

Few people realize that the earth's population growth totals almost an entire United States every third year. How can we feed twice as many people by the year 2000?

If any book can jolt apathetic U. S. citizens out of their world of fantasy, this is one. It is THE HUNGRY PLANET by Georg Borgstrom, internationally-known professor of food science at Michigan State University. He is campaigning to win the non-military Great War for Human Survival.

Dr. Borgstrom urges a drastic turnabout in our educational, research and political priorities. He advocates concentrating our scientific and technological skills vation or other catacyems of on solving the major problems on earth. Foremost are hunger, poverty, and disease. Otherwise the alternatives are mass starvation or other catacysms of staggering dimensions.

To squelch scoffers, there is massive evidence in the book. The publisher, The Macmillan Company, offers it to scholars and intelligent laymen. I wish all teachers, public officials, housewives, ecologists, business and labor leaders, clergymen, parents and grandparents would read — and heed — this comprehensive masterpiece of fact and wisdom.

You can get a copy for $3.20, including postage, from the Michigan Student Environmental Confederation, 409 Seymour, Lansing, Mich. 48933.

Fifth Graders Hear About Hartwick Pines

September 27, 1971

On Wednesday, Sept. 22, we had a very interesting and educational visit from Mr. Hoover, a State Park Interpreter from our own State Park, Hartwick Pines.

Mr. Hayes, our 5th grade science teacher, asked him to come in and talk to us about Hartwick Pines. So he did, and when he came, he brought with him a program of slides which helped him explain to us about all the different flowers, trees and resources in the Hartwick Pines. He showed us the Interpretive Center, the lumber camp, the campgrounds and many other things. And, as I said before, it was very interesting!

I, and I am sure the rest of the classes, would like to thank Mr. Hoover very, very much.

Woody Sherman, 5th Grade
Grayling Elementary School

Last Wednesday, Sept. 22, Mr. Hoover from the Conservation Office at Hartwick Pines came to the Elementary School. He showed the fifth graders slides of the Hartwick Pines.

He showed us some bald eagles. He also showed us the old logging camp and lots of plants. There was one plant called the ghost plant. He showed us scenes in the summer, then the same scenes in the fall, and then again the same scenes in the winter. He showed us lots of other stuff, too. Everything was very interesting.

Our principal watched some of them, too.

His dejected face slumps under a shabby hat. We don't know who he is.

But we know what he is.

He is a MAN. One of us!

To his loved ones he may be a disappointment. To himself he may be a failure. To society he may be useless.

But to God he is a SOUL — like each of us!

And therefore his whole life can change . . . when one day he'll discover the power and strength and hope with which every soul is endowed.

Quietly, behind the closed doors of a pastor's study, the Church is daily helping men to come to grips with their problems. Sunday by Sunday its pulpits are imparting faith and courage for those secret inner struggles.

The century-old Christian concept of the dignity of man has never rested simply on who and what we are. It is founded on the vision of what — with God's help — we can become.

4-H Week

At agricultural exhibitions all over the country, demonstrations of youthful skills in agricultural pursuits are prominently featured. A leader in the encouragement of these skills is the 4-H club. National 4-H Week is to be observed this year from October 3-9. The purpose of the week is, "To expand 4-H, gain greater public support, get more volunteer 4-H leaders, express appreciation to 4-H friends locally and nationally."

Those who have been fortunate enough to attend county or state fairs this year have seen the results of 4-H club work in animal husbandry, home economics and other fields. Any boy or girl between the ages of nine and 19 may become a 4-H member. Under the guidance of a 4-H leader, he can begin acquiring qualities of responsible citizenship, as well as an understanding of the science of producing the food and fiber upon which life depends.

The emblem of the 4-H speaks for itself: My Head to clearer thinking, My Heart to greater loyalty, My Hands to larger service, My Health to better living, for my club, my community and my country. More than two million youthful members of 4-H clubs stand behind the goals and principles of 4-H. 4-H Week is the one time of the year when parentsand the nation can respond to the young who must carry our civilization and our country forward to a brighter future.

Get Together Just Once

A United States Senator has spoken in an unusually forthright manner on the twin problems of inflation and unemployment. Senate Democratic Leader Mansfield declared that the country cannot afford another recession and expressed fear that the nation faces an economic upheaval beyond its capacity to absorb. He blames both political parties for the simultaneous and persistent inflation and unemployment. He said he would hope that justonce all parties could get together and forget politics and try to do something for the common good.

The candid words of Senator Mansfield are a striking departure from the stereotyped approach of the small and partisan political mind that can think only of the art of staying in office.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Broadbent celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday, Sept. 18, at the American Legion Hall. The beautiful 4-tier wedding cake was made by their niece, Mrs. Ronald Dickerson of Gaylord.

Following the party, as a surprise from their daughters, they were whisked away to the Gaylord Chalet Motel where the Bridal Suite had been reserved for a second honeymoon.

The couple exchanged their marriage vows at the Gaylord First Baptist Church September 18, 1921. They have three daughters, Mrs. Margery Widrig of Gaylord, Mrs. Elaine Bobenmoyer of Grayling and Mrs. Dora Lou Southern of Crofton, Md. They also have 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

It took some doing but last month this writer found out why early Michigan anglers got so excited about grayling, the little fish which gave the community of Grayling its name years ago.

Michigan grayling, a distinct species, have been gone from the outdoor scene for many decades. Logging drives made in the spring, coincided with the grayling's spawning season and this, plus over-fishing, led to disappearance of the spectacular little fish. They were mostly gone by the early 1900's but a few lingered on until 1935.

While they were here, grayling were found in the northern Lower Peninsula, north of a line from Muskegon to Tawas Bay. The most popular streams were the AuSable, Manistee, Muskegon, Hersey, Pine and Boardman. Only the Otter River was known to have grayling in the U.P.

To realize a longtime ambition of reliving the days of grayling fishing we headed up to Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, last month and boarded a Transair commercial airliner for the first segment of a 1,240-mile flight. Overnighting in Winnipeg, Manitoba, we continued north and west to Lynn Lake, then climned onto a pontoon - equipped DeHavilland Otter that flew us the additional 156 miles to Waterbury Lake in Saskatchewan.

Headquarters for our stay was Jackson's Lodge run by Jim Jackson and his son, Ted. Jim normally winters in London, Ontario, but spends four warmest months at the lake, which offers spectacular fishing for lake trout and northern pike, as well as the fish we sought. Since the lake and its tributaries are part of the upper reaches of the Mackenzie River which flows into the Arctic Ocean near Alaska, Arctic grayling thrive there.

We did most of our fishing on the Unknown and Hell's rivers. Oddly enough, most fishermen ignore the grayling there but we found the fly fishing tremendous in both streams. Wherever we ran across fast water we took grayling. They preferred the still pockets near the roaring rapids and snapped up any sort of dry fly laid in the right spot.

Unlike the extinct Michigan grayling, which didn't weigh more than 1½ pounds, the Arctic grayling we caught commonly topped that. We brought a 2¼-pounder home for mounting. The world's record, however, caught four years ago, weighed 5 pounds, 15 ounces. One of our Cree Indian guides also told of taking one in his nets that scaled eight pounds so the last has not been heard from that area.

A grayling's distinct trademark, of course, is his huge dorsal fin. It resembles a big sail bearing every color of the rainbow from a pale blue thru the bright red edging. On a big grayling you can cover that back fin and he resembles a chunky smallmouth bass, though the coloration is different.

As is the case with other fish, small grayling are not much for fight. Get them into the 15 to 18-inch class, though, and their performance becomes spectacular. Hook one on light tackle then and he comes out shaking his head like a high-flying steelhead in a series of breath-taking leaps. A surprisingly tough mouth is helpful but even then we managed to leave a number of flies up there.

Yes, it's easy to see why the Michigan grayling of 100 years ago was such a popular fish! We regret his passing.

"If It Fitz . . ."——By Jim Fitzgerald

You remember Simone Simone

I ran out on my front porch and hollered at a passing car: "Robert Stack gave Shirley Temple her first screen kiss."

The driver didn't stop and applaud. He didn't even honk his horn. He obviously flunked Art Appreciation in school. I'll bet the jerk doesn't even know why "The Little Colonel" was a unique movie. (Because it started out black and white but switched to Technicolor near the end.)

You may wonder why I yelled at a motorist. Because nobody was home except the 2 cats, that's why. And I quit talking to the cats 2 years ago when I discovered the dummies didn't even know the name of Simone Simone's leading man in "The Cat Woman." (Kent Smith.)

My amazing intelligence has led me to the discovery of a rather profound truth: there is no sense being smart if no one knows it. What I mean is, the last man on earth is bound to be a stoop. Why should he bother being smart when there is no one around to look at him in awe and say: "Gee you're smart."

There's a TV show called "The Movie Game." 2 panels of movie stars compete to see who knows the most about movies. They're usually pretty good but I'm always better. My only problem is getting my family to sit down and see how great I am.

"It's 7 o'clock, time for Movie Game," I say. And everyone gets up and leaves the room.

"I don't care who the 2 male stars of 'King Kong' were," my son says.

"Bruce Cabot and Robert Armstrong," I say. "How do you people expect to learn anything?"

So I am left alone with the TV set, with no choice but to run and scream answers between questions. For instance, the question might be who played the Laird Cregar role in the remake of "I Wake Up Screaming"? The answer is Richard Boone and I will also tell you that the original version starred Betty Grable, Victor Mature and Carole Landis who killed herself in real life after an unhappy love affair with Rex Harrison.

That's quite a mouthful. And I have to run into the sewing room to tell my wife, and into my daughter's bedroom to tell her, and into the basement to tell my son who is hiding — and still get back to TV for the next question.

"And I came up with the right answer 3 seconds before Shirley Jones' panel got it," I tell my amazed family.

"You are truly a marvelous man," my wife says.

But the other day she also said this: "The children have asked me to ask you to do them a favor. When they have guests, would you please not run through the house screaming that Stuart Irwin threw watermelons to Judy Garland in her first movie? It embarrasses them and they don't know how to explain you to their friends."

"It is a terrible thing for children to be ashamed of their father," I said. "I remember that movie where Frankie Darrow had no respect for his dad, Lewis Stone, who was a brilliant man, and . . ."

"I think it would be simpler if we all just leave the house when the Movie Game is on TV," my wife told the kids.

"Take the cats with you," I said. "They don't even know who Simone Simone was."

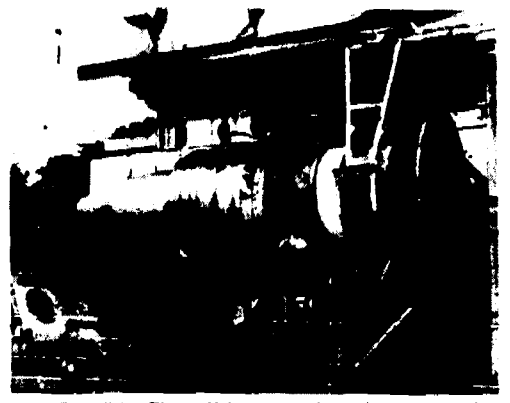

So now I am forced to yell at passing cars: "Hey, Mrs Frankie Laine and Helen Parrish were the other 2 girls in Deanna Durbin's first movie, '3 Smart Girls'."

That should screech some brakes. Onward and Upward.

Thought For Food

For inexpensive dinner insurance buy a meat thermometer to eliminate the guesswork when roasting beef, pork or lamb. Simply insert a roast thermometer so the bulb is centered, making sure that it touches neither bone nor fat. If the roast is to "set" before being carved (recommended for easier carving), remove the meat from the oven when the thermometer registers an internal temperature approximately 5 degrees F. below the temperature designating desired degree of doneness.

Looking for a new garnish for that delicious roast? Team two favorites, apples and mincemeat, for a colorful and delicious go-along. Remove apple cores, but do not peel. Place one tablespoon sugar in the center of the apple and fill with mincemeat. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes or until apples are tender.

JETTIN' QUIET . . . Noise tests of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's experimental Quiet Engine are underway at a ground site in Peebles, Ohio. The project is aimed at developing a 22,000 pound thrust engine that will operate 15 to 20 decibels quieter than those used in today's subsonic air transport such as the DC-8 and 707 jets. Tests are being conducted by the General Electric Co's. Aircraft Engine Group, contractor that built the engine for NASA.

New Point System for Duck Hunters

Michigan's duck season comes under a statewide experimental point system for the first time this fall in a move to shift gun pressure from the scarcer duck species to more plentiful birds. The new system is also programmed to give selective-shooting hunters expanded sporting opportunities pegged to population levels of various duck targets. Under the experiment, species of ducks in shortest supply are given the highest point value to protect them from being over-harvested. The point value for each bird is shown above. Under this point plan, any hunter will have to call it a day if the first bird he takes is either a canvasback or redhead duck. If it isn't, he can continue to hunt until he takes a bird which brings his day's point total up to or above 100. Department of Natural Resources wildlife men explain that the point system allows for a flexible bag limit based on the ability to be selective in shooting. Experiments in Michigan and elsewhere in the nation show that the point system reduces hunting violations and increases the enjoyment of hunters as measured against the standard program of bag limits.

Grass Roots

by PETER G. HAMMOND
Executive Director, National Coordinating Council on Drug Education

"Until Turkey stops growing poppy, we'll never solve drug abuse problems," is a disquieting attitude, too prevalent in America. This attitude perpetuates international hostility, overemphasizes law enforcement, and lets too many communities think that "action now" is useless.

A dramatic speech by Art Linkletter, international radio and TV star, before the United Nations this month should begin to change this narrowmindedness. Mr. Linkletter, president of the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education, asked the UN to fight drug abuse by answering basic questions about human life—and not solely by reliance on international codes and enforcement.

"No one nation can hold itself apart from this international effort that will be required to combat drug abuse," he said. "A new emphasis should be placed on behavior, life styles and human motivation in finding an answer to addiction."

He said that the world needs answers to questions about goals, values, aspirations and life forces before it can hope to rid itself of drug abuse. "Drug abuse is human misery compounded by human misunderstanding. The United Nations can begin to end the misery by cutting away the misunderstanding."

For a complete text of his speech send self-addressed stamped envelope to Drug Abuse Action, Box 2000, Washington, D.C.

Age Conflicts Spawn New Ideas

There may indeed be nothing new under the sun, as the saying goes.

But when an adult institution deals rather innovatively with representatives of a younger generation, the innovation is worthy of note.

All too frequently, of course, these adult-youth dealings are in an adversary situation, becoming confrontations of one sort or another, with varying degrees of severity.

The courtroom of late has brought some innovation.

For example, over in St. Clair County, there is a hopeful note in the approach of Probate Judge R. Gerald Barr and his program in dealing with under-age traffic offenders.

Judge Barr is using a teen-aged jury to try cases of first-offense teen-age traffic violations under the supervision of a court referee. The teens' sentences are binding on the young violators.

So far, so good, according to initial reports out of Port Huron juvenile court.

The idea has been tried in other times and in other places by other people, but we take our hats off at this time and place to Judge Barr and his young judicial colleagues for their program. It should work again; and we hope it does.

Then there was a novel sentence handed down by District Judge William J. Sutherland in Taylor.

An 18-year-old Taylor youth was convicted of desecrating the United States flag by wearing a patch-flag on the seat of his pants. That's against the law, and the violation aroused Judge Sutherland's dander.

Whether the sentence will be carried out properly, or whether it will be effective, should not be of widespread concern—except to the judge and the young violator.

His sentence: The young man was ordered to appear in front of the local City Hall every morning for three months and recite the "Pledge of Allegiance."

However, it does indicate that the older establishment is a thinking institution, pliable to the times and the situation involved.

Another confrontation of sorts occurred in a Detroit parochial high school, where the principal, Sister Mary Faber, dismissed about 50 of her male students on the first day of school because their hair was too long.

The boys, as could be expected, protested, but Sister Mary Faber stuck by her guns. Her reasoning:

"We have a certain dress code here, and if they don't want to abide by the rules, then they don't have to come to this school.

She added: "If I didn't take a stand from the beginning, I'd be fighting with them all year."

Personally, I find it impossible to argue with the good Sister's logic; but then I, too, am a member of the older generation. Anyway, good luck, Sister.

Then there was the innovative judge in another state who gave a convicted young man his choice: Either go home and live with his parents for a year, in a probationary status with the court, or go to jail for a year.

As could be expected, the young man chose home rather than jail.

However, before he could leave the courtroom with his parents, the boy and his folks got into quite a disagreement, and the young man returned to face the judge.

"Do I have to live by their rules for a year?" the boy asked.

"Yes," said the judge.

"Then I'd rather go to jail," answered the young man.

And so he did.

Obviously, there's much more to that boy's problem—and his parents' problem, too—than the judge could cure with one innovation approach. But the judge tried, and more power to him, too.

Hay Fever?

Hay hasn't always been only a livestock feed. During the Revolutionary War, colonials built a sturdy fort from 700 pound hay bales in one night. Come morning, British troops were amazed to see the imposing structure and abandoned their planned attack on the heights of Dorchester near Boston.

your week ahead
BY DR. A.W. DAMIS

Forecast Period: October 11 - October 18

ARIES Mar. 21 - Apr. 19 — Many members of your sign must face a week of constant tension and sudden surprises. So, try to keep your commitments equally spaced - don't overload your schedule.

TAURUS Apr. 20 - May 20 — It seems that most of your actions will be weighted on a scale of ambition. At one point, this week, you'll ask yourself if it's worth putting on a "front."

GEMINI May 21 - June 20 — You are old hand at getting involved in misunderstandings, but - be especially careful of a seemingly harmless obligation you have overlooked.

MOONCHILD June 21 - July 22 — Be selective with the words you utter, during a casual conversation between you and a member of the opposite sex. Repercussions show in your chart.

LEO July 23 - Aug. 22 — Misplacing a valuable article, that you might not miss until next week, is indicated in your stellar patterns. So, take care!

VIRGO Aug. 23 - Sept. 22 — Arm yourself with the "giving of compliments." Curb the urge to air a grievance. You should do well with someone in authority.

LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 22 — Apparently, a member of the opposite sex will not be happy with the company that you have been keeping.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21 — Hold it, Scorpio! It seems as though you have been riding side saddle with a troublemaker. Take a good objective look at your associates.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21 — Being fascinated by a "get rich" scheme is a probability for many persons of your sign.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19 — An overdeveloped sense of uneasiness, could be your problem, during the present cosmic cycle. In other words, there will be no substance to your anti-social feelings.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18 — More than likely, there is little wrong that you can do for the next few days. Incidentally, you are at a peak with your persuasiveness.

PISCES Feb. 19 - Mar. 20 — There's a difference, a big difference between opportunity and temptation. It's unlikely that you will control your impulses entirely. Nonetheless, don't trade off all of your tomorrows - for one today.

Jack Pine's Stump

Much of last week was spent driving back and forth between Grayling and Bellaire. The weather was dark, rainy, cloudy, warm and generally miserable. But I noticed how rapidly the colors were changing. Trees which a day or so before had been green were suddenly yellow and red. It seemed rather strange to me that trees could change under those conditions. And then I heard a most depressing story about fall colors. I had always been brought up to believe that cold frosty nights followed by sunny days brought on the colors. 'Tain't so. According to those people knowledgeable about the undressing habits of trees, warm cloudy, rainy days bring on the colors. Frosty nights just happen about the same time and have nothing to do with the cycle. So another childhood myth goes down the drain. I always rather liked the thought of Jack Frost and his paint brush.

— JP —

I like the story about the kid who missed the word "weather" in a spelling test. His teacher said it was the worst spell of weather she'd ever seen.

— JP —

I've noticed for quite a while now that around seven in the morning the flasher lights are going at the M-72 railroad crossing, but there doesn't seem to be any train activity. I can see the train down by the crossing though. So after looking both ways, I cross. But of late, I've grown a bit careless, and assuming that the train won't be doing anything again, after a cursory glance, just go on across. One day last week I talked with a man who found himself doing the same thing. We both agreed this bordered on lunacy. But he also told me that the engineers park the train there and go downtown to have breakfast. Now I'm all for having breakfast and I know that people who work on trains earn their money, but it doesn't make sense to park a train past the switch which activates the flashers. Some day someone is going to assume a train is parked and run the light. The results will be grim indeed.

— JP —

I was told in all seriousness the other morning that some men are wearing panty hose for warmth. People like skiers and hunters. Now I've been both a skier and a hunter, and I've been very cold doing both. But when it comes to wearing panty hose, I'm afraid I'd draw the line. And I'd worry very much about those who did.

— JP —

Probably one of the most unusual advertisements ever run was put out by Elliot, Ford Dealer in Dayton, Ohio. The dealer understands the intense desire of every youngster to own a car. He also understands the value of an education. The ad shows a picture of a new Ford and asks "would you pay $102,000 for this car?" The ad reads as follows. "This car actually sells for about $4,000. The student who drops out of school to go to work, just so he can drive tough wheels like this, stands to lose the $98,000 difference in potential earnings. So stay in school. We can wait. Show this to that restless kid next door who is not returning to school this fall."

— JP —

I suppose it is expected of me to answer last week's letter to the editor. It really isn't worth answering. Mr. Wilcox is an attorney in Albion who apparently visits in this area. His letter was mailed from Kalkaska. It isn't the first letter he has written to the Avalanche. He wrote one in much the same vein back in the Sept. 24, 1970 issue. Several of our citizens wrote replies. He doesn't like the Grayling area, particularly our merchants and businessmen. I have no idea why, but he's entitled to his opinions. However, he ought to know that there is at least one businessman in town who hasn't taken advantage of him. The subscription to the Avalanche he cancelled ran out last July 4, 1971.

Proposals Proliferate

A statehouse veteran looking forward to the November, 1972, General Election recently suggested that the contest for the U. S. Senate and for Michigan's 21 electoral votes may become of secondary interest by election day. The more interesting battle can be for a Senate seat.

He spoke only half in jest, for there was some truth in the observation.

Barring unforseen circumstances, Michigan will probably go for whomever the Democrats nominate for President next year. The state's electorate has never really liked Richard Nixon. That leaves only the contest between Sen. Robert Griffin and whomever the Democrats pit against him to stage a state-wide race for elective office.

Contrasting with this rather skimpy national contest card is a smorgasbord of meaty issues now being prepared for the public in the form of constitutional amendments and one proposed law.

If those now circulating petitions around Michigan all have their way, Michigan voters will decide in November, 1972:

— whether they want to abolish one of the two houses of the Legislature and give the state a one chamber legislative body.

— whether they want to (a) abolish the property tax for school operations or (b) abolish the property tax for schools and at the same time allow a graduated income tax for the state.

— whether they want to legalize abortions for any pregnant woman upon demand during the first 120 days of pregnancy.

— whether they want to ban the possession of hand guns in Michigan except for police officers.

— whether they want daylight savings time.

The daylight savings time issue is the only one now guaranteed a spot on the ballot. It will be there as the result of a petition drive conducted by backers of fast time in 1969 and 1970.

Presuming no legislative turnabout in the form of an agreement on one property tax relief and/or graduated income tax proposal, both Gov. William G. Milliken and state Democrats vow to place their individual versions of property tax on the ballot through the petition route. Milliken wants it to stand alone while the Democrats want to tie in a graduated income tax.

Both sides have backed themselves into a corner so they have to get something on the ballot, one way or the other.

The proposal to strip away one of the two houses is pushed by State Rep. Joe Swallow, R-Alpena, and has been making more headware than most people dreamed was possible when he first proposed it last winter.

The inaction of the Legislature this year provided the impetus needed to give some momentum to the idea. With the Jaycees actively behind the drive, many lawmakers are afraid a restless public will provide the signatures needed to put it on the ballot.

The most emotionally charged of the issues by far is the abortion reform proposal, which could make the parochiad fight look like a dull high school debate.

Abortion reform contains the church-state element of parochiaid and religion in any argument can make it heated. It also involves the very basic legal question of when life begins.

Should the abortion issue reach the ballot, debate is sure to include such terms as "murder," "freedom from slavery" and any other emotional word the combatants can contrive.

The reform proposal is different from the others, however, in that it would be in the form of a law rather than a constitutional amendment. It would have much the same effect as an amendment, however, since the courts have ruled once the people vote a law in or out, only another vote of the people can change that decision.

Much emotion would also be generated if the handgun ban, now pushed by Detroit Mayor Roman Gribbs, gets on the ballot.

Gribbs says the ban is needed to reduce on the Motor City's astronomical murder rate. But many Michiganders can be expected to strenously oppose any attempt to restrict the ownership of guns in any form, and the so-called "sportsmen's lobby" can be expected to put all its effort into shooting down the proposal.

There are other issues that people are talking about as well, and some other petitions are being circulated. Those we've mentioned have the most prominent support thus far.

And if they all get on the ballot, the publicity they generate could turn the campaign next year into truly the most "issue oriented" campaign this state has ever seen.

Leaves for 6 Months Study in Germany

Sheri Crampton, daughter of Mrs. Richard K. Crampton of 15301 Evergreen, Detroit, former county resident, was among the 103 members of Kalamazoo College's junior class who sailed from New York on September 16 aboard the North German Lloyd Line's "Europa" bound for six months of study in 11 centers throughout Europe.

The "Europa" contingent is part of the College's widerange ing foreign study program which this year will place over 200 students in a total of 24 centers in 15 countries.

The various study center programs are designed to provide the appropriate degree of exposure and training with placement based upon the student's language proficiency and academic plans.

Since the college initiated its foreign study program in 1962, over 2,000 students have spent some part of their undergraduate careers in foreign locations.

Participating juniors bound for the College's centers in Turkey, Sweden, Kenya, Nigeria, Senegal, and Sierra Leone traveled by jet.

Miss Crampton will attend college in Muenster, Germany.

Everyone is especially invited to enjoy any or all of these services. For more information, call 348-8317, Rev. C. F. Olin C. R.

Missionaries At Frederic Baptist

The First Baptist Church of Frederic will also be host to the Annual Round Robin Missionary Conference. The following missionaries will be at the church from Sunday, October 10, thru Wednesday, Oct. 13. Plan now to attend and enjoy the messages from these missionaries. Travel to different lands in each service.

Sunday, Oct. 10, 9:45 and 11:00 a.m., Rev. Willard Zimmer; 7:00 p.m., Miss Virginia Martin.

Monday, Oct. 11, 7:30 p.m., Miss Florence Theaker.

Tuesday, Oct. 12, 7:30 p.m., Rev. Doug Wasson.

Wednesday, Oct. 13, 6:00 p.m., Fellowship supper followed by evening service at 7:30 with Rev. Floyd Wood.

Pastor Glenn Arsnoe invites everyone in the community to come and hear these inspiring messages from these missionaries.

"Some people today advocate a consumerism based not on faith in the consumer but on lack of faith, a consumerism based not on a principle of consumer sovereignty but on a conviction of consumer stupidity," James M. Roche, chairman of General Motors, said recently.

BITS O' TALK

David Funck, son of the Edwin Funcks, had surgery on his leg last Wednesday and is still confined to Butterworth Hospital, Room 237, Grand Rapids. He would enjoy hearing from his friends.

Miss Sandy Burns was a house guest of Miss Kathy Davis of Port Huron for the weekend. Both girls are attending Grace Hospital of Nursing in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. James Papineau, Sr., frequent visitors to Grayling, hosted the girls to the Port Huron Northern-Roseville football game Friday night to cheer their son Douglas (Kathy's boyfriend) on to their first win of league play 8-7. Doug made the only touchdown. Swimming, pizza and cards topped the evening.

Mrs. Lela Niederer reports seeing a small fawn near her home a couple of weeks ago. It still had its spots.

Mrs. Rose K. Schulz of Chicago, Ill., who attended the Love School in the early 1920's is looking for the words to a poem which she has forgotten. It begins "Tis Not American To Be". Anyone having the words can turn them into the Avalanche and we will see that they are sent on to Mrs. Schulz.

Bill Williams and Mrs. Olis Cooper were in Flint Thursday to visit with Beverly Galloway and Mrs. Viola Cooper. Beverly Galloway and two girls came up for the weekend to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olis Cooper and to celebrate Bill William's birthday. They also had a nice visit with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kumpula visited friends in Kalkaska, Charlevoix and Mancelona on Sunday. Rev. and Mrs. Harris Jespersen of Circle Pines, Minn. visited at the Kumpula home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Carlson, Cindi and niece, Corlynn Meech were in Bellevue and Battle Creek on Sunday to attend a family get together in honor of his mother's 85th birthday. Also attending were Christine Carlson of Kalamazoo and friend Tom Olson also of Kalamazoo.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Ashton and children, Dale, Karyn and Lynda of Bridgeport spent the weekend visiting her mother, Mrs. Tony Gross and her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lary Gust and family.

Mrs. Bud Darrow and Mrs. David Jewell of Mackinaw City spent last Wednesday here visiting their sister Mr. and Mrs. Irving McIsaac.

GRAYLING JV's WIN TENTH IN ROW, 6-0

Coach, Chuck Mires, Asst. Lacey Stephan

The young Vikings with an all out effort posted their 7th straight shutout and tenth victory in a row with a hard fought 6-0 victory over Clare.

The game marked the end of Clare's 15 game winning streak against a solid Class B schedule. It was also the first time in 13 games anyone had scored against the Clare JV'S.

The game was a defensive struggle with both teams working throughout to gain good field position.

Halftime found the game still a scoreless deadlock. In the 2nd half Grayling gained position with D. McClain's fine punting & an aggressive defensive unit led by Walt Kozicki, Bernie Larson, Jim Bobenmoyer, Dee Mead, Tom Vajda, Dan McClain, Jim Benedict, and Chris Weaver.

A reverse play with flanker Jim Bobenmoyer carrying 31 yards got the ball deep in Clare territory. Quarterback Chris Dunckley carried over the goal line for the games only score.

The Grayling JV's next opponents are Mancelona, Tuesday, Oct. 5 and at Boyne City next Thursday, Oct. 14th.

Women of the Moose

The October 4th meeting was called to order by Senior Regent Maggie Miller, with our Chapter night program being Christmas in October for Mooseheart and Moosehaven. We had two new members enrolled, Mrs. Marie Ryder and Mrs. Rose Lobb. Our chairman for Christmas in October, Bernice Winston had a very nice program with lunch in the basement. She also is extending her program to Oct. 15th with games and lunch, the proceeds to go to Mooseheart and Moosehaven.

There was a belated birthday party for Wilma Sunday. She was very surprised and pleased. She wishes to express her appreciation to all the girls for the beautiful gift.

Girls remember to be here Oct. 15th and bring a friend. The proceeds go for a very good cause.
